Location

Sharon Regional Health System is located in Mercer County (population 120,000) in northwestern Pennsylvania, midway between Pittsburgh, Erie, and Cleveland, Ohio.

History

Sharon Regional Health System has provided health care services to people throughout the region for more than 115 years. Originally incorporated in 1893 as the Sharon and Sharpsville Charitable Hospital, Sharon Regional officially opened in 1896 as the Christian H. Buhl Hospital. Over the years the facility has grown from an 18-bed hospital to Mercer County's largest hospital and health care system. Sharon Regional consists of a 251-bed Joint Commission accredited hospital along with 22 satellite centers located in Mercer and Lawrence counties, plus eastern Ohio, providing area residents with convenient access to Sharon Regional physicians and services.

Employees

Sharon Regional is Mercer County's largest employer with more than 1750 employees.

Mission

Our mission is to provide the highest quality, advanced healthcare services to all communities within our region.

Vision
